

Redwings Boredom Busters!

Boredom busters encourage curiosity and foraging behaviours. Make the most of them by mixing them up. Remember to use different toys at different times and resist the urge to leave them in the paddock too long to help keep them interesting. Watch how they enjoy them and learn about their individual personalities and preferences.

The Cone

Traffic cones don't just stop traffic - they stop boredom too!

Netball

Get your ponies active with a game of netball. No hoops or trainers required! Just stuff a haynet with hay and an inflatable exercise ball.

Selection Box

Horses might not be able to eat chocolate, but Ash and Mascarponies seem to be enjoying munching their way through some hay to get to the carrots and apples hidden inside!

Barrel Piñata

No need for a blindfold or a bat, just drill some holes in a barrel, hang from a wall, fill with forage and let the horses see the hay!

Tyre Treats

Ponies are sick and tired of the same old boring hay nets - spruce up their feeding routine by using a spare tyre as a miniature hay ring!

Hay Bag

Old Spillers bags are excellent tools, just let the hay spill out for a horse to munch on.

Tea-Time Toy Ball

Stuff the handle of a toy ball for an engaging and tasty tea-time treat!
